Love svg. Lave plus. Having just come back from the UK Premier, I can honestly say, that was quite simply appalling. Only Kill Your Friends is a worse film of 2015. I absolutely loved Enter the Void with a passion, the poster has been my iPhone screen saver ever since. It was slick, stylish, sexy and trippy.

Love, however fails to deliver on so many levels. I get what the director was trying to achieve here, but it just doesn't work due to the appalling acting from the very unlikable main character. Where on earth did they get him from? Was he the only actor who was willing to show his erect cock on the cinema screen? His lines are delivered with such a flat misanthropic moribund tone that you can't believe anything he says.

The voice over just adds to the car crash. Its a film which lacks any real emotion or chemistry.

If you want to watch a gritty film with real emotions watch Blue is the Warmest Colour and 9 Songs.

Caspar Noe, you have let us down badly here. Go back to making in your face trippy films.
