|-----------------|----------|---|--|-----|
|                 |          |   | Demonstrate the student the “place the cup” game. Place a pile of paper cups on your hand and listen out for the name of the fruit. Call out a fruit e.g. Mango and place the cup on the Mango flashcard. Ask two students to participate in this game, playing against each other. Note: To make it competitive, you could decide that only one cup is allowed on a flashcard. The first student to place a cup on the flashcard claims a spot.   |     |
| Practice | 10-15min | Create a link between words and images to aid students to recognize and pronounce the words. Engage the students in recognizing the difference between “a” and “an”. Teach sentence structure: “It is a/ an ... “ Creating an understanding of vowels: a,e,i,o,u. | Using flashcards, introduce the “a” and “an” flashcard. Teach the student to pronounce the words by slowly wording it out, pointing to your mouth to draw attention to the differences between the words. On the board, write out the vowels: a, e, i, o, u. Place “an” on top of the vowels to indicate where we use “an”. Group all the words starting with a vowel sound (Apple, Orange), place the word “an” above this group. Ask for other examples of vowels e.g. egg, umbrella, igloo. Place all flashcards on the floor or board. Group all the words starting in consonant sound one side (Banana, Pear, Pineapple) Place the “a” flashcard on top of this group. | T-S |

|-------------------|----------|---|---|-------|
|                   |          |   | Ask each student to answer the question: "What fruit is it?" pointing to the fruit, to which the student should answer: "It is a/an ..."  |       |
| Assessment | 10-15min | Assess the overall understanding.Encourage the students to communicate with each other. | In a small box, put in plastic fruit 2 X of each (can be bought quite cheaply from children's stores). Prepare this before class. Now take out the box and shake it – which will excite the students and focus their attention. Open the box and pull out a fruit. Ask the question, "What fruit is it?" and give the student a few seconds to try respond thereafter teach the sentence: "It is a/an..." with the whole class repeating after you. Give each student a chance to hold the fruit and repeat the sentence twice, a different fruit with each student. Do this with all the students. Now invite two students, one to pull out the fruit from the box and ask the question: "what fruit is it?" and the other student to respond "It is a/an..." Give all the students a turn, assisting with the pronunciation of the words. | T-S-S |
| Wrap Up    | 3-5min   | Revise the Vocabulary and the sentence structures.  | Using flashcards, ask the class the question: "What fruit is this?" to the answer: "It is a / an ..." Assign homework: "Fruit Crossword"Sing a song: Go Bananas  | T-S   |

|  |  |  |   |  |
